II. DATA PROCESSING ON OUR WEBSITE

When using the website, we collect information that you provide yourself. We also automatically collect certain information about your use of the website during your visit to the website. In data protection law, the IP address is also considered personal data. An IP address is assigned to every device connected to the Internet by the Internet provider so that it can send and receive data.

1. PROCESSING OF SERVER LOG FILES

When using our website for purely informational purposes, general information that your browser transmits to our server is initially automatically stored (i.e. not via registration). These include by default: browser type/version, operating system used, page accessed, previously visited page (referrer URL), IP address, date and time of the server request and HTTP status code. The processing takes place to protect our legitimate interests and is based on the legal basis of Art. 6 Para. 1 Letter (f) GDPR. This processing serves the technical administration and security of the website. The stored data will be deleted after eight weeks, unless there is a justified suspicion of illegal use based on concrete indications and further examination and processing of the information is necessary for this reason. We are not able to identify you as the data subject based on the information stored. Articles 15 to 22 GDPR therefore do not apply in accordance with Article 11 (2) GDPR unless you provide additional information that enables you to be identified in order to exercise your rights set out in these articles.

2. TRANSFER OF DATA TO THE USA

For data transfer to the USA as a third country, i.e. a country in which the GDPR is not applicable law, the European Commission has decided in accordance with Art. 45 GDPR that with regard to companies certified under the EU-US Privacy Shield, an adequate level of data protection is required. The transmission to the USA will then take place in a permissible manner. Certified companies are included in this US Department of Commerce list: <https://www.privacyshield.gov/list>.

3. COOKIES

We use cookies and similar technologies on our website. Cookies are small text files that are stored by your browser when you visit a website. This identifies the browser used and can be recognized by our web server. We use so-called “session cookies”, which are deleted again when the browser session is ended. Other cookies (“persistent cookies”) are automatically deleted after a specified period, which may differ depending on the cookie.

The use of cookies is partly technically necessary for the operation of our website. We also use cookies and similar technologies to measure the reach of our website and to analyse the use of our website. We also use cookies and similar technologies to understand user behaviour across websites and devices.

Cookies are stored on the user's computer. Therefore, as a user, you also have full control over the use of cookies. You can delete the cookies in the security settings of your browser at any time. You can object to the use of cookies through your browser settings in principle or for specific cases.

Information on how cookies and comparable technologies are used by us can be found below under the description of the specific processing activity.

4. ANALYSIS OF OUR WEBSITE WITH GOOGLE ANALYTICS

We use the Google Analytics service from Google Ireland Limited (Ireland/EU) to evaluate our website visits. Google uses cookies that enable an analysis of your use of our website. In doing so, personal data is processed in the form of online identifiers (including cookie identifiers), IP addresses, device identifiers and information about interaction with our website. The information generated by the cookie about the use of our website by users is usually transmitted to a Google server in the USA and stored there. Google will use this information on our behalf to evaluate the use of our online offering by users, to compile reports on activities within our website and to provide us with services related to the use of our website and the internet. Pseudonymous user profiles can be created from the processed data.

We only use Google Analytics with activated IP anonymization. This means that the IP address of the user is shortened by Google within member states of the European Union or in other contracting states of the Agreement on the European Economic Area. Only in exceptional cases will the full IP address be sent to a Google server in the USA and shortened there. The IP address transmitted by the user's browser is not merged with other Google data.

The setting of cookies and the further processing of personal data described here takes place with your consent. The legal basis for data processing in connection with the Google Analytics service is therefore Art. 6 Para. 1 Letter (a) GDPR. You can prevent the storage of cookies by Google Analytics by setting your browser software accordingly. You can also prevent the collection of information generated by the cookie by downloading and installing the browser plugin available at the following link: <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>.

Please also note that we document any consent you have given in order to comply with our obligation to provide evidence under Art. 7 Para. 1 GDPR. Since we are obliged to do this, this storage is based on the legal basis of Article 6 (1) (c) GDPR.

When using Google Analytics, we cannot rule out the possibility of the processed data being transmitted to Google LLC, based in the USA. Google LLC (USA) is certified under the EU-US Privacy Shield.

III. FURTHER DATA PROCESSING

3. APPLICATIONS

If you apply to our company, we will only process your application data for purposes related to your interest in current or future employment with us and the processing of your application. Your application will only be processed and acknowledged by the relevant contact persons at our company. All employees entrusted with data processing are obliged to maintain the confidentiality of your data. If we are unable to offer you employment, we will keep the data you have submitted for up to six months after any rejection for the purpose of answering questions in connection with your application and rejection. This does not apply if legal provisions prevent deletion, further storage is required for the purpose of providing evidence or you have expressly consented to longer storage.

If we store your applicant data for a period of two months and you have expressly consented to this, we would like to point out that this consent can be revoked at any time in accordance with Art. 7 Para. 3 GDPR. Such a revocation does not affect the lawfulness of the processing that has taken place on the basis of the consent up to the point of revocation.
